forests and waterfalls, I end up having the spiritual experience that Oddie predicted. I take part in drumming sessions, talk about my astrological journey in a sharing circle of women of all ages and gain the confidence I need to take action on my brand-new dream: signing up to do a yoga teaching course in India later in the year.

As I return to Sydney, I realise that travelling according to my star sign has led to me having completely different experiences to anything I could've planned. I never would have imagined myself diving (too scary), playing tribal drums (too cringe) or cycling kilometres to find a farm when there was a beach nearby. But those experiences were highlights of the trip, and I feel no regret for not seeing some of Australia's most famous sights.

My trip has taught me to go with the flow and, on my last day in Sydney, as I sunbathe topless at the women-only McIver's Baths, I realise that I don't know if it was astrology or just my gut feelings that led to the creation of new connections and me pushing my boundaries to their limits. But it doesn't matter. Travelling based on my star sign really meant listening to myself. As I lie on a rock with the sound of waves crashing into the shore below, I promise myself to always travel with my inner Taurean in mind. E

WHERE SHOULD YOU GO?
 ALIGN YOUR TRAVELS WITH THE COSMOS AND CHOOSE YOUR NEXT TRIP ACCORDING TO YOUR STAR SIGN

ARIES

Restless and adventurous, top your hit list with a visit to Bhutan. The luxe Six Senses (sixsenses.com) has just opened – get there before the rest of your Instagram feed does.

TAURUS

"Relax" is your mantra, so opt for hideaways like NSW's Mona Farm (monafarm.com.au), or the bolthole that is Laguna Beach's Hotel Joaquin (hoteljoaquin.com).

GEMINI

You thrive on variety, so mix it up with cities near the beach or countryside. Try Florence (and stay at the new Hotel Calimata; hotelcalimata.com), or Hotel B in Lima (hotelb.pe).

CANCER

The perfect escape for homebody Cancerians is a big house near exceptional food. Try a luxe villa in Italy, like the new Villa Amica (designhotels.com/villa-amica).

LEO

You love glamour and places that resonate with your energetic soul. Try high-octane Mumbai (and a stay at Soho House's outpost there; sohohousemumbai.com).

VIRGO

Wholesome and organised, Austria and Virgos are a perfect match.
